PRIMJER ODGOVORA – originalni tekst koji sadrži pogreške

I think the main problem is in lack of books, there are not enough books for everybody. And the rest of books are very old and used too many times, so if you want to copy them, the print is so unreconisable that you can see nothing. It's very hard to study with that kind of material. The course is hard enough without that. We tried to scan a few of the books that are in better condition, but without any luck.

I think if the school can provide us other materials, it can provide us new books also, especially because we are paying a great amount of money for this additional education.

Maybe if you can give some discount in future, more people will aply and attend your school. The quality will be better, as well as results. Try to meet with people who own bookstores and give them a good deal, that you'll buy a large amount of these books every month, but for a fair price. Everybody's winning, bookstores, school, and off course students. Try something like that. One of the solutions may be for example e-learning, do everything from computer, it's easier, faster and chieper. After all, we're living in 21st century!
